1 Pick one role. Not six.

Non-IT remote work is growing fastest, and generalists are the crowded lane. Choose the card where you already overlap, confirm you can see 20+ open listings, then commit for 90 days. Times assume ~10 study hours a week and are estimates.

2 Your 90-day roadmap

Days 1-14 Foundations

- > Choose your role
- > Save 20 real listings and note repeated tools
- > Start one course, 45 min daily
- > Test backup internet and power

Days 15-45 Build skills

- > Finish the course using real tools
- > Start your proof project by week 4
- > Write English daily: summaries, mock replies

Days 46-70 Prove & apply

- > Rewrite CV and LinkedIn for the role
- > Send 5 tailored applications a day

Days 71-90 Interview & adjust

- > Finish the course using real tools
- > Start your proof project by week 4
- > Write English daily: summaries, mock replies

3 Get hired faster

CV that gets replies

- > Headline = role + tools
- > Results, not duties
- > Link your proof project under your name
- > One column, PDF

Apply smart

- > Open with one line about their business
- > Add your project link
- > State your time-zone overlap
- > Contact small companies directly

Interview ready

- > Test camera and mic, keep a hotspot
- > Prepare 3 stories: problem, mistake, independence
- > Explain how you give async updates

4 Get paid, avoid traps

Tax: check before you act. Reporting says the FY27 budget extended the 0.25% concessional tax rate for IT export income to June 30, 2029, and that PSEB registration and bank-channel receipts are conditions. This comes from one accounting blog and appears aimed at IT exporters, so your role (bookkeeping, VA) may differ. Confirm with PSEB, FBR or a tax adviser and keep invoices and bank records.

5 mistakes that stall people

- 1 Course hopping
One course plus one project beats five courses.
- 2 Same CV for every job
Tailor it to each listing.
- 3 Being a generalist
"I do everything" is the crowded lane.
- 4 Slow, vague replies
Poor communication loses remote offers.
- 5 Fake job offers
Never pay a fee to get hired or share card or PIN details.
